

Dear industry member,

As you know, securing reliable banking access remains a challenge for diamond companies. Alongside our ongoing efforts on that front, we actively scout alternative payment solution providers. Two fintech companies (= companies offering digital payment and financial services) have expressed interest in serving the diamond industry, and we are bringing them to you.

On Friday 3 July, from 11am to 12.30pm in the AWDC Boardroom, both companies will present and discuss what they have to offer.

These providers are:

- REALIS, a boutique fintech company that could offer a wide range of solutions to niche industries.
- Paynovate, a payment institution that focusses on the essential services, such as current accounts and payments.

Each provider will give a short presentation, followed by a Q&A. In return, they are looking for direct feedback from you, the industry representatives, on your needs and expectations, making this a two-way conversation.

The session is intended for diamond company owners who manage their own financial operations, and for CFOs or financial managers at larger diamond companies. Seats are limited and AWDC will ensure a balanced representation across industry segments.
